

🇬🇧 SSSSB Story 025a: Pardesi Daju's Three Weeks in Nepal [5-12 years]

Pardesi Daju was a kind man. He visited Nepal, but he didn't speak Nepali. He smiled and said hello to everyone.

In the second week, something magical happened! Everything he touched — toys, food, clothes — became double! People came with phones, money, and toys. He touched them — and they all became double!

Question 1: What would you like Pardesi Daju to touch to make double?

But no one gave him food. He became tired and weak.

In the third week, the magic changed. Now, everything he touched became small or half! People got angry. They took him to a trash place and said, "Stay away!"

A kind girl named Zoya saw this. She brought him food.

Pardesi Daju was very happy. He said, "Thank you, Zoya!" And he ate the tasty food.

Zoya called the hospital, because Pardesi Daju was very sick. Even the ambulance became small — but it still worked!

At the hospital, everything got smaller — beds, chairs, medicine!

Zoya told the doctors: "Don't worry. He wants to help."

He touched a list of sick people — and they felt better!

Question 2: What would you like Pardesi Daju to touch to make smaller or go away?

After that week, he went home.

Zoya sang: 🎵 "Pardesie, Pardesie, don't go... stay with us." 🎵

Heart-Work: Did you like the story? Draw a picture or write something or a song for Pardesie Daju!