

🇬🇧 SSSSB Story 055b: Why can't I inspire other students to be an example and be loved by everyone? [13+ years]

Two students from grade 8 wanted to be inspirators and loved by everyone. They tried many things, but until now nothing seemed to work.

Student A: "One thing I don't understand is how I can inspire all the other students and be loved by everyone."

Student B: "I feel the same. I have already tried six things, but nothing has worked so far:"

1. Sometimes I give my classmates chocolate, but giving chocolate didn't inspire them or make me more loved by anyone.
2. I participate in sports and other activities, but joining these didn't inspire them or make me more loved by anyone.
3. I am always on time at school, but being on time didn't inspire them or make me more loved by anyone.
4. I always do my homework, but doing homework didn't inspire them or make me more loved by anyone.
5. I always raise my hand and answer questions in class, but that didn't make me more inspiring or loved either.
6. I try to look good, but that also didn't inspire others to see me as an example or make me more loved by anyone.

What should I do more? How can I inspire everyone and be loved by everyone? Nothing I try is working."

The students decided first to listen to the experiences and advice of the SSSSB members, and with that knowledge and inspiration, try to find new ways to be inspirations and loved by everyone.

Question: What one thing, would you do to inspire others?

Heart-work: Practice the values you learn from the story. After some time, share your example.
