

🇬🇧 SSSSB Story 034b: A Lesson in Love and Understanding [13+ years]

In a cultured family of four, where both father and mother were devoted schoolteachers, lived an elder son and a younger daughter.

The son was gentle and kind-hearted, always caring for his little sister. He helped her with homework, guided her patiently, and stood by her whenever she needed him. Yet, the sister misunderstood her parents' concern. She believed they loved her brother more, since they often reminded him to eat, sleep on time, and take care of himself.

In reality, the boy was so absorbed in his studies that he sometimes forgot these routines. His sister, on the other hand, naturally ate on time and went to bed early, so her parents never had to remind her. Still, jealousy grew in her heart.

Sensing her feelings, the wise parents decided to send the brother to a hostel for a short while. The boy, ever obedient, agreed.

At first, the girl enjoyed having the house to herself. But soon, she began to miss her brother deeply. When faced with a difficult school assignment, she realized there was no one to guide her. Tears filled her eyes as she understood the true value of her brother's love, care, and support. She went to her parents and pleaded to bring him back.

The very next day, her brother returned home. She ran to him, hugged him tightly, and said: "I'm sorry, Brother. Now I understand how much you care for me."

Her brother smiled warmly and replied: "You will always be my little sister, and I will always be there for you."

From that day onward, the girl's misunderstanding vanished. She began to appreciate her brother more, and the family lived in harmony and happiness. Later, she joined the SSSSB class, where the lessons she learned brought a positive transformation in her life.

Question and Heart-Work: How can you show more appreciation to the people who are always there for you?